

What stops us from moving forward on the road of love, peace, harmony and happiness?

Are they fears?

Are they ego?

Are they a part of your personality issues?

Are they attitudes?

Are they attachments?

Are they control issues?

Are they worries?

Is it lack of acceptance?

Is it our pride that stops you?

Is it that we are unaware or ignorant?

What is it that we face problems in our lives and yet we cannot solve it?

It is all due to our thoughts, mindsets, beliefs. It is all due to the feelings we attach to our thoughts. We human being love to attach ourselves to what we really like and feel comfortable. This attachments or desires leads us to the blindness and leads us to power games, ego, selfishness, fears, judgements, negative attitudes, worries, griefs, sorrows, and much more. Our minds perceive and give relative value - positive and negative - to the different side of duality. Life is full of dualities. It is the coexistence of opposites, joy and sorrow, pleasure and pain, up and down, hot and cold, light and darknes, birth and death.... All experience is by contrast. One would be meaningless without the other. Each extreme in duality is necessary to fully actualize the other. The key is to not resist or suppress the negative, but be aware. You cannot eliminate the negative by focusing exclusively on the positive. Energetically, both opposites must remain in balance. Increase one and its opposite will also increase. We must acknowledge and accept all aspects of life. And so if, we seek to be honest, we do so by acknowledging our potential to be dishonest. We can bring out the positives only when we catch ourselves acting out the negative. We can take awareness to high levels each time when we take one more step in our life's journey. Higher awareness is conscious of spirit and form working together. We must be present within, in tune with our true inner self, to hear the subtlest whispers of intuition through our thoughts, feelings and sensations, to be aware and mindful, moment to moment. We need to go beyond our old mechanical patterns, compulsions, rejections, egoistic attitudes, fears, arrogance. To do this, we need to approach the present as totally new. When we can be open and attentive each moment, we begin to free ourselves from the conditioning of the past and the suffering that it brings. We can be free from emotional upsets, relationship challenges, financial struggles, financial challenges, superficial literal one dimensional lives, unable to access peaceful life, unable to connect to others out of love....

So, let us all of us connect to the great force and have the creative power within us which inspires us to wake up, be aware, to be new us, to recognize the real us, the one that meets our deepest needs and help raise the quality of consciousness of each one and the entire world, to the world of love, peace and harmony.
